1. In the area between Gorna Djumaya and Petric, there are no indications of any unusual activity or any military preparations against either Greece or Yugoslavia. No troop concentrations, no maneuvers, no intensified training, nor increased security measures were observed in this area. The army is on a peacetime basis. The mountains are still snow-covered.
2. Aside from an inspection of this area by Bulgarian General Todor Toshev early in March and border inspections by an unspecified number of Bulgarian and Soviet officers, the only Soviet officer known to be in the area is a Lieutenant Colonel serving as advisor to a Bulgarian regiment in Nevrokop.
